STUFF WE LOVE

Modern Dog staffers' picks of the litter

1 With its ability to survive slobber fests and muddy encounters, this is no ordinary dog bed. Animal Haus' "Stream" dog bed maintains its plump, lump-free shape while fighting stains, moisture, bacteria, and odour. It's made from Crypton Super Fabric, engineered to protect the fabric without any toxic chemicals. What more could you ask for in a good night's sleep?—Mariella ($190, animalhauschicago.com)

2 Is your pup feelin' sore? Cold? Warm Whiskers' Doggyback Jacket Pack can help. The microwavable and freezable piggybacking polar bear or pooch can be attached anywhere on the thermal fleece jacket to heal arthritic pain or warm your pup. So go ahead Fido, cuddle away!—Annica ($40, warmwhiskers.com)

3 Inspired by their luxury baby slings, the natural-cotton PsLing for Dog provides a comfortable, hands-free way to carry small dogs like me. Plus they are beautifully made, manufactured by one craftsman from start to finish in Japan. Maximum weight 22 pounds.—Miniature Dachshund Rose ($95, pslingnewyork.com)

4 Stress free? Check. Positive thoughts? Check. Emotionally balanced? You bet. Me and my best friend are cool, calm, and collected. Rescue yourself and your dog with Bach Flower Rescue Remedy, available in both people and pets formulas.—Jessica ($13, www.rescuere medy.com/pets)

5 Jac Trac is a great new company offering sustainable, 100 percent hemp collars and leashes. I particularly love the great colours they come in (made with non toxic, eco-friendly dyes!). Check out their collars, hand-free leashes, and bike attachments.—Lisi ($20, jactrac.ca)

6 Ahoy Matey! I have sailed the deep blue sea to bring you this heartfelt doggie tee.—Maxine ($30, cafeexpress.com/maggierrss)

7 If you're having little luck keeping your dog off the good sofa, you'll love PetzOff. The attractive throw is backed by a crinkly, heavy duty, reflective backing that, when draped over your furniture, will shout "off limits!" Pets don't like the feel or sound of the aluminum foil, leaving Rover no choice but to seek an alternate snooze spot.—Connie ($60, petzoff.com)

8 With my bad back, I currently need to be toted about and this Bowhaus NYC carrier with its Marimekko-inspired coral daisy print seems just the thing to put the spring back in my step.—Miniature Dachshund Esther ($145, bowhausnyc.com)

9 For those who like clothing and like to show their love for dogs at the same time, Bite The Power offers plenty of options. This sweatshirt keeps me warm and reminds me that small dogs can have big attitudes.—Omar ($38, bitethepower.com)

10 Being a somewhat spiritual type of gal, I'm totally groovin' on my new Paco collar. Celtic-design metal insets and flat-set studs sit around the one-inch-wide leather collar. I look stunning and make a statement.—Kaya ($70, pacocollars.com)

11 Enjoy an unencumbered walk to the park with this retractable ball thrower. It's easy to stash, fun to use, and will definitely keep your dog on the run!—Ariel ($20, ballistic-dog.com)

12 I love things with a history, and these whimsical dog tags from The Lovepaw Co. have an abundance of it, culturally speaking. Named for the King of the Greek gods, the Zeus pet charm is handcrafted in Athens, Greece, of sterling silver from Switzerland and the evil eye is made by artisans in Turkey. Wear it yourself for good luck, or have it engraved as Fido's ID.—Karin ($75, lovepaw.com)
